

SAVING YOU TIME: Using Culling Strategies to Meet a Tight Deadline

Background

---

The Client was an international company providing services across 26 countries. They ranked in the top 25 in Inc. Magazine's list of fastest-growing companies in North America. They were involved in an international contract dispute. Outside counsel was a small litigation boutique with limited discovery resources. They needed to meet a quickly approaching holiday production deadline.

The Challenge

---

The Client needed to collect emails for multiple custodians over a 10 year period. Due to the limited collection features offered by their system and the tight deadline, the Client sought out Page One Legal. During the collection process several new issues arose.

- ▶ Page One was provided access to the email server with only 8 days, to collect, process, code, and produce the data.
- ▶ The size of data collected was over 500 GB compressed.
- ▶ The total documents in the collected were over 1 million.

The Solution

---

The Results

---

The initial culling strategies reduced the data size by 150 GBs. Utilizing the Page One Early Case Assessment Platform in Relativity, Page One then narrowed down the 1,000,000 documents to only 400 documents. As a result of identifying these 400 documents in only 3 days, the Client saved an incredible amount of resources, all while meeting their tight deadline.

Summary

---

The Client wouldn't have been able to meet the deadline without partnering with Page One. Page One came up with a proactive time management plan that leveraged their culling strategies. Outside counsel stated, "Not sure how we'd have ever been able to do it without [Page One]."
